On the Edge of Excellence.

Hurrying off to her third hour class was Robin McDaniel, a senior at Willow Springs High School.

Are you lost? Well, this sign will help you find the Willow Springs Bears.

What's Hot and What's Not!

During the 93-94 school year, students at Willow Springs High School were wearing a variety of different types of clothes. While walking down the hall, you might have seen someone who looked like they belonged in the seventies. When comparing what people wore during the year to what people wore the year before on hippie day, you could definitely see some similarities. Platform shoes and combat boots were two types of shoes that were brought back into style.

But mainly during the year, students were wearing what they felt was the most comfortable. This included several different styles from thing like flannel to tee-shirts and jeans. Altogether, the students of the 93-94 school year were fashionable and always looked their best in the latest styles. by Shere: Carpenter Below: While plopped on the floor, Windy Smith eats her lunch with her friends Jonah Roberts and Jenny Fullerton

Junior Wins Homecoming!

The new 1993-94 Homecoming Queen was Kelly Whitaker. This was the first time in four years that a junior has won the crown. Kelly won the race and she was up against some tough competition. The candidates were Senior-Jackie Rodgers, Sophmore-Stephanie Ogden, and Freshman-Allison Coatney.

On the field, these candidates were escorted. Jackie Rodgers was escorted by Ricki Henson and Jason Watts. Kelly Whitaker was escorted by Brody. Fair and Kurt Lowe. Stephanic Ogden was escorted by Zach Robertson and John Wilson. Allison Coatney was escorted by Kenny Watts and Shawn Hardman. Carson Cash and Chad Greer accompanied the retired queen, Lisa Taylor.

Although we lost to Thayer 20-6, the football team still tried their best. The most tense part of the game was the first quarter because it was scoreless. Then at half time it was tied 6-6. Unfortunately, from then on the Bobcats had the upper hand. by Ryan Boyle

HOMECOMING

We Got Spirit!

1993's Spirit Week was routine for the spirited students at Willow Springs High School. Monday, the halls were filled with bell-bottoms and sandals on Brady Bunch/Hippie Day. On the second day, students dressed like the opposite sex. Guys wore dresses, heels, and makeup. The girls wore caps and hightops. They had fun on Cross-Dress Day. Wednesday, everyone wore their favorite and funny looking hats. Most students participated on Hat Day. On the fourth day, students dressed in hunting gear as they hunted the Bobcats. Almost everyone wore camo on Camo Day. On Friday, students were most spirited. The students showed their pride for our school. They all wore school colors on Maroon/White Day. Students dressed "on the edge" for Spirit Week. Spirit Week has been going on for years, and will continue in the years to come. by Jacob Hicks

Junior Wins Again!

Well, the Junior Class did it again! The 1993-94 Hoop Queen was Junior Jaime Coulter. Like Homecoming, a junior won the contest. The other candidates were Senior Kera Utter, Sophomore Heather Boyle, and Freshman Wendy Smith. While the mother's and father's of these Willow Springs High School beauties watched their daughter's the W.S.H.S basketball team was preoccupied with the up-coming game. No worry, though, the Willow Springs Bears won.

Selow: Junior Jason Bendon shows his xtraordinary talent for eating apples withbut his hands.

The Class of 1995 grew more mature as they experienced their junior year. This was a year of firsts. It was the first year as an upperclassman. That meant no more being picked on by those who gave them a rough time as an underclassman. For some of the younger juniors, it was the first time to pull their cars into the student parking lot. It was the first chance for some juniors to take the challenge of classes such as Algebra III and Chemistry, while others decided to go alternate routes. That was the first chance to take the ACT and the PSAT. It was the first opportunity to be nominated for the National Honor Society. The junior year is probably the biggest year of school.

Living On The Edge

The class of '95 is truly living on the edge. Juniors are on the edge of experiencing new situations, fun, and decisions. It's a year of passing on traditions like trash canning, flag poling, and all the mind games that were used on us. We have one year left before we have to make all the hard decisions on our future. It's also the year many people get jobs to pay for cars, insurance, and the weekends. Just about every Junior has found a car by their Junior year, even if it is their parents old boat. Extended curfews were another perk. But even if you didn't get a car or better curfew, you still had the knowledge that you ruled because you were a Junior.

ophomores in a Year of Change

The 1993-94 school year was the year of changes for the sophomores. No longer being freshmen, they were now experienced high school students. They were ready to complete another school year successfully, well some of them. Being a sophomore is great because you have more privileges than the year before. You can join clubs and go on trips. When Nicki Bennett was asked how she felt sophomores were supposed to act she said, "We're sophomores, how are we supposed to act?" Being a sophomore, you have a better choice of classes that can help you in the future, and also some of the classes can be entertaining and educational. A lot of sophomores say that they feel like they are treated more like adults by their teachers. They were also one step closer to graduation. Being sophomores they were no longer the new kids in the school. They were used to what high school was like. The new sophomores were all ready to start a new year successfully; all hoping for the best in the years ahead to come. Most of the class would agree that each year of high school is better than the last, and they all agreed that the 93-94 school year was a great year for the sophomore class.

Every sophomore remembers the dreaded freshmen year. Being a sophomore is a big step up from being the new kids in the hall. The sophomores are on their way up in life. They have only two more hard years of high school. Last year was very exciting and was a great experience that should last a lifetime. When Sherry Carpenter was asked how the life of a sophomore was, she said, "It's great, the teachers respect you and know you much better."

Many students like being a sophomore. They enjoy it because they have more privileges. They are given the ability to try many new things. As they begin to grow and become old enough to drive, they learn a lot about their life and what is in the future for them. Sophomores also receive a much better choice of classes that will help them to become successful in life and in their careers in whatever they would like to do in the future.

Stress plays an important role in our everyday life. It is the body's reaction to pressure and threats from the environment. In our language, it's the stuff like homework, fitting in, and facing another day that gives us a headache. Being a freshman is very stressful. Not only do you have to worry about wearing the right clothes, but also watching out for those big, mean upperclassmen. When you're not ducking to miss them, you're racing to make it to your next class on time. Once you're there you receive a homework assignment, or if you are really lucky you will find out that you have a 100 point test the next day. Don't get too stressed out though, remember some day you too will be an upperclassman.

Assistant Principal Colley? This year's new dimension in the administrative office was to add Coach Colley to the surroundings. Actually, he does a lot more than most realize. It was decided to have an assistant principal because of the increasing student population and because of the campus setup, and since he assumed this role, he's been busy.

Coach Colley was appointed to assistant principal because he has a masters degree in administration. With the block system now in the middle school it made it possible for Coach Colley to have more time for other duties. By taking on the title of assistant principal, he found out what kind of situations he would have encountered as principal, should he ever decide to pursue that post. For right now, he's happy to just providing the extra help.

Mr. Dunn is no new face in the office. In fact, during past administrative absences, Mr. Dunn has had to assume the role of assistant principal. He says he's glad to see Coach Colley step into this role because his role as a counselor requires that the students feel like they can talk to him. Often students shy away from talking to a principal, and he finds it difficult to help them when they won't talk to him.

by Travis Romans and Sherry Carpenter

"It's a definite plus to have Coach Colley to help out with administrative problems. This will help my relations with the students."

Jonah Roberts is proud of his "Mrs. Emmerson" doll that he create while working on a "how to" project in Composition.

How we was learned 'bout English

English is thought of as one of the basic classes. It is taught from the elementary years to the final year in high school. Our high school offers English I-IV and Composition.

In the English classes you learn basic grammar and read world-famous novels. In Ms. Jansen's English I class, her students read The Call of the Wild. In English II, students read The Good Earth and To Kill A Mockingbird. In English III The Scarlet Letter was read by students. Ms. Adams English IV students read Ivanhoe and Frankenstein. All of these novels broaden the students' knowledge of our historic literature.

Composition is a writing class that prepares college-bound students for the complicated written work they will be expected to complete. Mrs. Emmerson took over teaching Composition this year. When asked about her expectations, she replied, "It should be a good year. It will be a great learning experience for the students as well as for myself."

he 1993-94 publications class has certainly been "On the Edge." Meeting deadlines and reaching their financial goals were certainly tough, maybe biting off more than they could chew at times. Ad sales and yearbook sales were set at high standards to include color senior pictures. With the tough economic times, money wasn't easy to raise. Most of the publications staff were in their first year of this class, so there was a lot of confusion at first on what normal procedure was.

In the classroom, both the newspaper and the yearbook staffs were hard at work proofreading stories, designing layouts, and rapidly typing out whatever needed to be put on the computers. Almost everyday, a person could find a staff member or two developing pictures in the darkroom. You might have even seen one of them in the halls or at a sports function carrying a camera.

One of the highlights of the newspaper was the increased number of pages over the year before.

Puedes Hablar Mi Idioma?

Some people say Spanish is a bit of a challenge to learn. This is true when you live in an area where the chances of running into a Spaniard, Mexican, or Cuban are next to nothing. With the number of unilingual immigrants of defectors on the rise, it is good to learn a second language, especially Spanish.

Spanish classes are more than just learning to speak the language. Students learn the customs and experiences of other countries. Their world attention amplifies to where they can enjoy the excitement of that country by learning to speak, read, and comprehend the language and doing Spanish activities.

History Past and Present

hroughout history, people have been influenced by the actions of their ancestors. These ancestors were creating history as we know it. From this we in turn learned from their mistakes and benefited from their progressiveness. For example, if the Allied Powers hadn't stopped Adolf Hitler, would our world be the same? What about Martin Luther King? If he hadn't came forward and stood up for civil rights, where would our nation be today? In contrast, what did we learn from the civil war? Didn't we learn that fighting resolves nothing but results in needless killing and separation of otherwise friendly aquaintances? You can learn more about these examples and many more by taking the history courses offered here at our school.

Dissecting the Possibilities

Most students would agree that science here at the Willow Springs High School is tough, and for some too tough. But science is what students make it, so with the beginning of the 1993-94 school year students decided to work harder and study more diligently to make science a class to have fun with.

In many of the science classes students were given the opportunity to participate in many scientific experiments. For example, in Biology II students had the chance to dissect a fetal pig. While most students found this quite fun there were others who hadn't the stomach for it.

ON THE WAY UP

The high school art department had really improved in the last few years. With a dynamic first place win at the 1992-93 Alpha Rho Tau competition, Willow was geared up for another win last year at Cabool. For those who found that fifty minutes, five days a week was not enough time, Mr. McGarry has opened his room up to students for Open Studio after school hours. Farming for the Future in Agriculture

Agriculture is constantly growing and changing business. In vocational agriculture students learned about animals, plants, farm equipment, conservation of wildlife, and many other subjects too numerous to mention. In the 1993-94 school year many exciting changes took place such as the remodeling of the green-house and new equipment. Vocational agriculture pro, Jason Beltz said, "I've learned many things that will help me in the future and Mr. Walker is a great teacher."

CHOIR: You'll sing your heart out!!

Choir ,as many people know, is a challenge and takes much practice. Willow Springs' choir is a very successful choir. The Concert Choir received a I rating at districts singing "Panis Angelicus" and "Gather Ye Rosebuds." The Chamber Choir received a I rating also singing "The Handsome Butcher,""Apple Apple," and "Farewell My Love." Our choirs consist of a concert choir, a girl's chorus, and chamber choir. The ensembles and solos which made I ratings at districts, hope they recieved appropriate ratings at state competition. The choirs have taken upon themselves a great task and will succeed greatly in the future.

Teaching health was Coach Cauldwell, who was also on the Federal Grand Jury in Springfield, MO. She taught students the meanings of health and fitness. The students also got to see the birth of a child on video. The P.E. students also learned how to do proper exercises to keep them in peak physical condition. These classes were greatly enjoyed.

Practice Makes Perfect

The 1993 marching band season was a routine event for director John East and his students. Directing last year were drum majors, Gretchen Hicks, Gena Jett, and Kim Pigg. They directed the marching band with four songs. Two of the songs were from the cartoon movie Aladdin. They were "Arabian Nights" and "Friend Like Me." The next song, "Someone Like You," featured soloists, Victor Sheets on trumpet and Heather Scheets on french horn. The last song, "Love Me With All Your Heart," featured Gretchen Hicks on trombone. The band placed 3rd in Flat River and Aurora. The marching band also went to a competition in Springfield called Ozarko. They did not place, but they learned many things from it. They marched in a blizzard.

The 1994 concert band did very well at district competition held here. They recieved I's from all four judges, and recieved a II in sight-reading, which was very difficult. The solos and ensembles which performed for a rating did extremely well. The band had 43 people going to state competition. Band takes all the effort and practice that anyone has but works out in the end.

Simply Speaking Football in '93

The true definition of a good football player is someone who can be a leader but also can always have room for improvement. The '93showed that 94 football team they have determination and dedication. Although the football team's success wasn't as good as some of the past years, they still tried their best, and that's all we ask. Team spirit is a very important aspect in football. We talked with Coach Bowie and he had a few things to say about the football team. When asked how he felt the season went he said,"With a young team it was a learning experience, and they felt a lot of frustration." He felt that the team needed to be committed and had to work hard to make improvements. There will be a lot of returning letterman and most of them know the system. So we will be looking forward to the next fall football season, hoping it will be a success.

The Lady Bears

Dig, Dive or Die

The 1993-94 Lady Bear Volleyball teams demonstrated that devotion and determination to the sport can end well. The JV struggled in the beginning, but after the first win, they gained the confidence to finish strong. The Varsity played hard but the wins just didn't come as easily to them. The future volleyball teams should be strong and well established. After losing two dedicated players to graduation, the returning Letterman will contribute to the volleyball seasons to come. With Coach Jackson urging every player to put her very best into the practices and games they proved that they could be a winning team. Each player had a goal to prove they were worthy and able to play to their ability, so by the end of the season the ladies had proven that they could do their best in everything they do.

Simply Speaking

Slightly Too Small

> igh intenstiy is what you witnessed when you went to a Lady Bear game this season. Although the ladies had a 3-18 record, they put forth all they had. With strong defense, they kept opponents from getting the ball and scoring inside the paint. Despite their tough defense, the ladies just couldn't pull it together by the end of the season.

With only 3 juniors, the underclassmen were forced to step up and take the responsibillity that was dished out to them. These talented freshmen and sophomores proved that they didn't bite off more than they could chew.

A few players proudly appeared among the top SCA lady basketball members. These included freshman Sabrina Smith, sophomore Tracy Wheeler, junior Dawna Jo Baker, and junior Celia McReynolds.

All in all the Lady Bears played a fairly well season and should have better seasons in the years to come. With Coach Jackson as head coach again next season, the ladies expect to gain enough confidence to pull it together and prove their talent as a team.

he 1993-94 boys basketball teams proved that hard work really does pay off.

Determined to succeed, they sacrificed social oppurtunities for a life of tough practices and a little running here and there.

W i t h seven seniors leaving at the end of the year, the question arose-Willthe freshmen and the J.V.'ers be ready to step up and take control? The answer: most likely. The confidence the younger teams showed throughout the season outweighed the anxiety of knowing that they would have to prove themselves in the years ahead. It may take a few games to calm their nerves, but with a little work, they'll come through in the coming seasons.

The Varsity knew the pressure was on this year. They needed to prove to themselves of the talent they possesed. Whatever happened, they knew they could take it, but they needed to show themselves just how good they really could be. Fortunately, they did. They may not have been all state, but they did prove something to themselves as well as the eager, faithfully await-ing fans.

Cory Jones, senior

The whole town wishes next years' team well, and hopefully the WSHS Bears can uphold the tradition of discipline and determination. The future Bears will have a winning season as long as everybody stays in the game.

Good luck to the graduating seniors and maybe we'll see y'all in the NBA!?!

It's a "Personal Best" Thing

Golf and Track are two school sports that are usually focused on individual efforts rather than team work. To many, Track is running, jumping, and throwing; It's a spectator sport. But to the students who made up the track team, it's running hard, working out, helping to set-up and take-down the equipment, and a whole lot more. You can tell who went out for track this year because they are the muscular, the sweatie, the tired looking folks walking around campus. But their personal devotion and desire to be their best kept them going through this rigorous spring sport. And for each of them, it was time and energy well spent.

Golf is a sport that our school has participated in for many years, but people still pay little attention to it. Many talented players made up this years team, and together they created the right combination to lead to a great year. They even took on some of the faculty golfers in a few matches. While golf doesn't have the popularity that track does, it's still a sport of personal bests, and each team member did achieve just that.

To Cheer

ome people ask, "What is cheerleading?" Cheerleading is the twelve letter word for hard work, endurance, and devotion. It is the ability to drag oneself out of bed at indecent hours to go to cheerleading camp, be patient and willing to learn new material, and travel to faraway places on school nights. The 1993-94 Junior Varsity and Varsity squads had these abilities and more.

Cheerleading did not just start during football season. It started immediatly after tryouts. The first major thing the squads had to overcome was cheerleading camp. At the beginning, all the cheerleaders were excited, but when the end neared they were ready to head home.

The cheerleading squads for the school year 1993-94 have learned that cheerleading is not just a fun time. It is hard work, devotion, patience, and willingness.

Farming for the Future

Future Farmers of America is a group of young people that plan on being the future. This group of people are dedicated to what they want for the years ahead. Most of the students in FFA already knew a great deal about agriculture and farming before entering high shcool and Mr. Walker's class. A minor problem someone might find with FFA is initiation. It means you go through a day of looking partly like the "Incredible Hulk." A day is spent wearing a diaper and walking around with a calf bottle. Despite this, they have fun by spending a wild weekend in Kansas City and going to concerts at the state fair. People actually pay money to buy these poor students at a slave auction. ably not. DECA is a co-curricular marketing based youth activity group and participates in community activities and projects and competes in competency based competition. The written projects took months upon months to complete, and the difficulty of the tests separated those who studied and those who were there to get out of school.

State competition was the contest that would tell who would go to nationals in Detroit. This year, 17 students made it to state. Unfortunately, not everyone could make it to nationals. Seven out of the 17 made it. One of the projects that made it was the Free Enterprise Project, which took fourth place in the nation.

The one who made this possible was Mrs. Higgins, the DECA advisor. For fifteen years she has been the DECA advisor here at Willow Springs High School. After twenty-eight years of teaching, she has decided to bid everyone farewell. She will be greatly missed for the leadership she has shown all these years. A Crowd of Honor

The 1993-94 National Honor Society (NHS) was not as recognized as the year before. This is because they stopped chip sales. Finances were received through the Student Activity Fund.

Last year, NHS inducted seven new members. They were considered based on their academic record, their personal characteristics, and their behavior at school.

One thing NHS provided was the Academic Awards Banquet. This banquet is held to honor outstanding students in all fields of learning.

Student Council Makes Improvements

The 1993-94 student council underwent a few changes over the last year. One change is the appointment of Mrs. Snider as sponsor. Of course there were personnel changes after the elections.

Student council is involved with recycling and organizing Homecoming, Hoop Queen, and the dances.

According to Mrs. Snider, the dances were more successful because "we had a live band at one of our dances. We also had some parents volunteer to help with food and decorations."

After this year, Mr. Zorn will take over the new gifted program.

Changing With The Times

This year many changes have taken place. Many teachers have decided to resign. Coach Bowie, Coach Schrag, Ms. Jansen, Ms. Beeler, and Mrs. Higgins are among those who will discontinue their careers here at our school after the 93-94 school year is complete. Dr. Enloe will also be leaving our school. Effective as of December 1994, Dr. Hamby will be replacing him as Superintendent and Bill Meyers will be taking over as principal. Mr. Dunn will also be leaving the high school next year. Ms. Adams will be taking over as counselor to the high school, while Mr. Dunn will move to the Elementary.

The high waters of the flood caused many highways to be damaged as though an earthquake had occured and damaged these roads severely.

Quite a few highways were destroyed because of the flooding.

CURRENT EVENTS

The rain left people building up sand to keep the highways from being under water.

The strong winds caused many families homes to be wrecked or destroyed.

The Great Flood of '93

The flood of '93 was one of the most disasterous events that had happened in the past year. It had engulfed many homes and businesses. This catastrophe had spread through the midwest and disrupted hundreds of thousands of lives. After eight months of rain, major rivers reached record flood levels, breaking levees and submerging farms and cities throughout the midwest. In other high floods, the Missouri River breached an old levee, sending some of its flow toward the Mississippi River. The flood killed at least 2 people and caused an estimated $8 million in damage. The flood covered over 10 million acres.

On the Edge of Time

Between school, homework, and for some an after-school job, spare time is an expensive commodity. Everbody is searching for the best way to spend this invaluable time.

Some of the more athletic individuals enjoyed spending their extra time playing sports, while others passed the time at home lazily doing nothing. The weekends were spent by some cruising.

In the endless pursuit of entertainment, peoples' paths were broad and varied. No matter how people spent thier spare time they always managed to have fun.

Son,

You have been a joy to us since day one. We wish you the very best for your future. Love, Mom and Dad

You are very unique and precious to us. Eighteen years have flown and you've given us lasting memories. Your accomplishments have brought us pride and enjoyment. Thank you for letting us share in them. We look forward to your future. May the Lord bless you always.

Love, Dad, Mom, Stephanie, and Candice

Gina Marie --

You made raising a daughter to eighteen seem like a stroll in the park. We're very proud of you.

With kisses of love we give you your wish to head for the gulf and work with the fish.
